Column

We have been asked to write editorials about the following things:

Why isn't a new plaque put up on the soldiers' monument in the plaza so that the names which should be added can be added?

Why is all the safety publicity directed toward the motorists, "Drive carefully, the child you kill may be your own"? Why doesn't somebody do something about the carelessness of the kids themselves, running into cars with their bicycles, darting out into the street from between parked cars?

Why doesn't the city open Fourth Street between Lincoln and Monte Verde streets so that people from out of town could have a route to the beach along Camino Del Monte and Fourth, thus relieving pressure on Ocean Avenue? A citizen has offered free dirt for the fill, and for a fill in the Dolores Street dip.

About the soldiers' monument. We called Jimmy Kelsey and relayed the question, as we have done for several years after every Armistice and Memorial Day, the time when this question always arises.

Jimmy said that he wasn't American Legion Commander anymore but he understood there is a committee working on it.

About the kids. Their mothers should tell them to be more careful.

About the suggested route to the beach. We called Street Commissioner Francis Whitaker at his Forge in the Forest. Did he think it a good idea? He said it wasn't a new one. Well, what did he think of it? He said, "Look, Wilma, I have an iron in the fire and a hot customer." We said goodbye. —Wilma Cook

Hex Hits Witch Play, Gordon Hospitalized, Lee Crowe Takes Over

The company of Bell, Book and Candle, a comedy which treats somewhat flippantly of the subject of witchcraft, is not altogether certain that someone hasn't thrown a hex on their top-rated production.

The play will enter its third weekend tonight at the Golden Bough Players' Circle with two new faces in the cast: one of them the leading man, the other a cat. The original occupants of these vital roles were removed in a pair of mischances this week.

On Wednesday, leading man George Gordon was taken ill and removed to the hospital, to remain there for a week; after that, he'll be confined to his bed for at least three more weeks. And the same day, Joe McKenney, the talkative Siamese cat who plays Pyewacket in the show came out on the short end of an encounter with a dog, suffering three broken ribs. George and Joe will be all right, but both will be out of the show indefinitely.

Standing by the old show-biz motto that the show must go on, (Continued on Page Four)

Carmel Bowled In 1914, Chased A Murderer, Was Stunned By A Headline

Carmel, Calif.
November 11, 1953.

Dear Wilma:

Reminisce with me. May I add my bit about the old bowling alley and some unrelated items pertaining to the year 1914? At that time my husband and I were managing the Carmel Hotel at San Carlos and Ocean Avenue. It stood on the site of the present Mary Gould building. Next to the hotel, where Walt's market now stands, a bunch of oldish cronies filled in their time with pitching their own ten-pins. I did pretty well at the game and had I continued, who knows but that I might have become a professional bowler. Just another opportunity lost to achieve immortality in something.

In the years preceding the advent of the bowling alley, John Williams' fish market was somewhere in that vicinity. Once or twice a week we wandered through a narrow little alley to the rear of the lot and there we found a small cabin with a porch on which a large waist-high chopping-block stood. Probably the stump of a tree which had been felled. John would flop a fish onto the block, chop off its head, slice a portion of the meat and sell you enough for your dinner for ten cents. And give you extra little bits for your cat if you had one. The only wrapping would be an (Continued on Page Four)

Board To Hear Protests On New Church Building

Opposition has developed to the building of a Presbyterian chapel on the corner of Santa Lucia and Scenic Avenue. It will come to a climax at the Carmel Planning Commission meeting Wednesday at 4:00 o'clock. At that time the commission will hold a public hearing on the application of the North Costal Area of the Synod of California for a use permit for the construction on the chapel at the disputed location.

O.E.S. Hold Doll And Gift Sale At Ralke Bldg. Today

Dolls of all sizes, shapes, colors and varieties — each beautifully dressed in a hand-made and individually designed costume — are the featured attraction at the first annual Doll and Toy Sale sponsored by the Carmel Chapter, O.E.S., which opened this morning at 9:00 o'clock in the Ralke Building across from the post office. The sale will continue until 8:00 o'clock this evening.

In addition to the dolls, most of which are new and all of which (Continued on Page Thirteen)

Street Department Completes $82,000 Summer Projects

When City Clerk Peter Mawdsley presented reprints of his annual report, published October 30 in the Pine Cone, to the city council at its meeting last week, he called attention to "the enormous amount of work" accomplished by the street department, $82,000 worth so far this year, of which $47,000 was paid through state grant and gas tax monies.

Mayor Horace Lyon congratulated Street Commissioner Francis Whitaker, Street Superintendent William Askew and City Clerk Peter Mawdsley for their co-operative efforts in completing the bonanza job. It included:

Major construction: Sixth Street from Mission to Junipero, street surfacing and construction of rock wall along the park. Carpenter from city limits to Ocean Avenue, complete surface job. Scenic from Ocean to Santa Lucia, surfacing, also surfacing two blocks of lower Ocean Avenue. Other surfacing jobs: Eighth between Scenic and Junipero; Twelfth between Scenic and Junipero; Monte Verde between Ocean and Third; Third between Dolores and Monte Verde, Second between Junipero and Santa Fe; Monterey between Valley Way and Third; Third between Guadalupe and Santa Fe; Fourth between Dolores to San Carlos.

Maintenance projects which involved a blanket oil mix and burn: Guadalupe from Mountain View to Ocean; Santa Rita from Mountain View to Ocean; Santa Rita, Fifth to Sixth; Mission, Third to Fourth; Third, Mission to Junipero; Fifth, Dolores to Monte Verde; Tenth, San Carlos to Casanova; Lopez, Second to dead end.

Monte Verde from Seventh to Santa Lucia received a shoulders repair job, and base was replaced on the truck route, Second and Santa Fe, and a resurface job completed.

During the past two weeks residents of the area have been circulating and signing a petition which states:

"We the undersigned residents of Carmel-by-the-Sea or adjoining addition do hereby protest sale of lots at the corner of Scenic Drive and Santa Lucia for a church building."

The residents outside as well as inside the city limits are signing the petition (the proposed location is just within the city line) and the planning commission has notified the county planning board of Wednesday's hearing in recognition of the interests of the property owners outside the incorporated area.

One of the leaders in the protest movement told the Pine Cone that main objection was that the presence of a church at that corner would lead to intolerable traffic congestion. "There is lots of space just a few blocks away, out near the new school." She added that no matter how attractive the building might be, it would be out of harmony with the rest of the neighborhood which is entirely residential.

Meanwhile, Dr. Harry Clayton Rogers, founding pastor, has held first services at the Carmel Woman's Club and 30 people have joined the new church.

A model of the chapel is on display at city hall and will be presented for the consideration of the planning commission at Wednesday's meeting.

Mrs. Sisson Back, Will Do Postscript For The Pine Cone

Mrs. E. O. Sisson, who arrived home in Carmel last week after a year in her native Norway, is finding that possibly the most strenuous part of a world tour is the homecoming.

Somewhat breathless — partly from the repeated excitement of encountering old friends and partly from "an allergy or something" she acquired during the trip—Mrs. Sisson stopped by the Pine Cone office last week to report on the trip home. Hardly had she settled herself and removed the handsome tartan-lined tweed coat she brought from London than another batch of friends caught sight of her, and the "welcome home" started all over again. "This is the way it's been ever since I got back," she said with happy resignation; "I haven't even dusted yet, much less unpacked."

The homeward trip was accomplished with considerably more dispatch, if less enjoyment, than the outward-bound voyage last winter, when Mrs. Sisson boarded a small freighter for a leisurely (Continued on Page Sixteen)

PACIFIC GROVE WINS COAL B LEAGUE TITLE

Winding up their season with a resounding 43-6 victory over the hapless Carmel Padres on Armistice Day, the Pacific Grove Breakers copped the B division title as they swept through an eight-game schedule without a defeat. In their drive to the title, Pacific Grove ran roughshod over King City, Gonzales, Gilroy, Hollister, and Carmel.

Last Wednesday's Armistice Day clash found the stubborn Padres putting up determined resistance in the first half but wilting to superior Pacific Grove power in the second half. The Breakers hit pay dirt in the first quarter as they blocked a Padre punt and Larry Quental picked up the bounding ball and scooted for the score. A pass interference penalty in the second quarter set up the second Breaker score with Gene Walsh bolting the final 18 yards for the six-pointer. Larry Quental missed both conversions and the Breakers enjoyed a 12-0 bulge at half time.

The aroused Breakers went to work with a vengeance in the second half as they powered for five touchdowns and made good on one conversion attempt. With the Breaker reserves on the defense, Carmel moved to a touchdown in the early minutes of the fourth quarter as George Hunter quarterback-sneaked through the middle for the only Carmel score. Paul Fratessa's attempted conversion kick was blocked and Carmel was through scoring for this game.

A hard-charging Pacific Grove line put the damper on Carmel's running attack and forced the red and grey to seek yardage through the air. Several long-gainers were registered on Hunter-to-Leidig and Roloff-to-Ledbetter aeriels. The outstanding defensive play of Dell Redding, Bob Ameil, Denny Johnson, and Allen Knight stood out along the Carmel line.

For seniors Dell Redding, Dick Schetter, Don Leidig, Al Knight, Denny Johnson, George Hunter, Bob Lemmon, Bob Ameil, Dennis Gerber, Jim O'Dell, Dick Hilgers, Howard Roloff and Francis Schutz, this was the final football clash in the red and grey spangles of the Padres. Back for further duty next year will be Ted Ledbetter, Don Rowe, Billy Powell, Merle Pitman, Millard Martin, Lee McGuckin, Greg Danelz, and Jon Menand.

TURKEY TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The fifth annual turkey tennis tournament will be held at the Pebble Beach Tennis Club next Sunday, November 22. Mixed doubles and men's doubles will be played starting at 10:00 o'clock in the morning, to be followed by a turkey luncheon at the clubhouse.

CARMEL JV BLASTS PACIFIC GROVE, 33 TO 13

Scoring through the air, on the ground, and via the recovered fumble route, Chuck Dawson's little Padres ground out a 33-13 win over the Pacific Grove Wavelets in an Armistice Day preliminary tussle to the varsity clash. The little Padres hit the scoreboard on the second offensive play from scrimmage as quarterback Mike Mosolf hit Clyde Klaumann, left end, with a 40-yard forward pass to dent the end zone. Paul Fratessa's place-kick from the hold of John Zellhoefer split the uprights and the little Padres were in front, 7 to 0. The next time Carmel got possession of the ball they moved 55 yards for touchdown number two with Kyrk Reid booming the final two yards. Fratessa's conversion kick was wide and Carmel was on top, 13 to 0. The Wavelets roared back for a td as a series of passes and end runs paid off for a score. Carmel came back to get another score on the board with West Whittaker moving 15 yards for the touchdown blast. Fratessa's kick was good and Carmel had a halftime lead of 20 to 7.

Both teams moved for touchdowns in the third period, Carmel scoring on a quick hit over the middle by Billy McCormick, and the Wavelets taking to the air for their second marker. George Wightman, lanky Padrecito end, recovered a Pacific Grove fumble and streaked over for the final six-pointer.

The victory over Pacific Grove gives the little Padres a 6-2 record for the season. The losses were to the Monterey Serra varsity and the King City junior-varsity. All junior-varsity performers will be back for more action next season with most of the squad being sophomores and freshmen.

CLEAT MARKS

One of the best football games on the Pacific Coast is slated for the Fort Ord Stadium tomorrow afternoon when the potent Warriors entertain the equally potent San Diego Naval Training Center in a big service championship affair. San Diego NTC is recognized as the outstanding service team in Southern California while the Warriors are kingpins in the Northern section. Ord's star-studded aggregation of Ollie Matson, Ed Henke, Dave Mann, Al Mathews, John Heinrich, Pat Cannamella, and Ed Price will be thoroughly tested in tomorrow's grid natural. Game time is 2 p.m. . . . Jim Tidwell's Lobos looked the part of a real football team as they took the good East Contra Costa JC team to the cleaners last Saturday night. A fine job of blocking up front coupled with the determined running of Bobby Updike, Fred Delgadillo, and John Lewis gave the Lobo ground attack lots of sting. Myron Branson and Don Canham, former Padres, played a lot of football in the forward wall. The Lobos trek to Visalia today for a clash with the College Of The Sequoias, and return to action in a home game with Hartnell on Thanksgiving Day. The Turkey Day crucial is billed for 2 o'clock. The awesome

Hartnell Panthers continue their fabulous domination of junior college teams, unmercifully shellacking the Cal-Poly junior-varsity and Marin JC. . . . When the Gonzales Spartans topped the Carmel Padres, 13 to 0, last Saturday it marked the first league victory for the valley lads. Every team in the B league has now chalked up a league victory as the King City Mustangs rudely upset the Hollister Haybalers in a 25-19 thriller. Carmel's junior-varsity completely dominated the Gonzales reserves, rolling up a 35-0 victory. A powerful passing attack engineered by quarterback Mosolf to Clyde Klaumann, George Wightman, Bill McCormack, and West Whittaker overcame the hard-trying Gonzales lads. . . . CCAL B league season is over and the all-league selections will soon be made. Consensus points to the Pacific Grove Breakers to load the all-league team with at least six players. End Moldenhauer, tackles Chalmers and Lopez, guard Galasso, center Hoy, quarterback Dirk, fullback Quentell, and halfback Crawford are easily the best in the league. Gilroy's Kretz and Lemos should find a spot on the club as should Hollister's fine end, Ken Klauer. King City has a fine end, Wallace, and Gonzales a real good halfback in Stubby Stubblefield. Up for consideration from the Carmel squad will be Bob Ameil, a steady tackle all season, and Captain Dell Redding, pound for pound as good as any guard in the league. Sportswriters and coaches will join up at a dinner meeting in Gonzales on November 23rd to pick the top gridders.

In a few days the first shovelful of earth will be lifted to start construction for the new church building of the First Church of Christ, Scientist in Carmel.

The new church will be situated on Monte Verde Street near Sixth Street on the property adjacent to the present church. The structure will consist of a main floor including auditorium, rostrum, readers' rooms, musicians' rooms and a foyer.

The basement under a part of the structure will house the Board of Directors room, committee rooms, cloak rooms and other necessary conveniences.

The call of the period for greater spiritual solace, and the rapidly growing population has made it necessary for churches everywhere to "enlarge their borders." This new church will help to meet the need in this community, taking its place with the beautiful churches of other denominations in Carmel.

The architect, Mr. Robert R. Jones and his associate, Mr. Walter Burde, have prepared a design, satisfying in its unique beauty, fulfilling the present need in accord with Carmel traditions of simplicity and individuality.

The walls of the church will be built of reinforced adobe brick with interlocking shingle tile for the roof. The full-length windows will be made of cathedral glass, the color of which will blend in harmony with walls and furnishings when finished.

The present church building will be remodeled and made attractive for the children of the Sunday School.

Between the two buildings there is space designed for a walk and a garden plot, which will add much to the convenience and charm of both Church and Sunday School.

Mr. Harold C. Geyer has been given the contract for the building of the church.

Daniel L. Gray

Services were held yesterday afternoon for Daniel L. Gray, who died Monday night at his home on Fourteenth Avenue and Monte Verde following a brief illness. He was 73. Dr. K. Fillmore Gray conducted the services at the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea.

Mr. Gray was born August 21 in Little Rock, Arkansas, and after completing his education went into business, remaining in Little Rock until four years ago, when he and his wife, Mrs. Nancy Gray, came to Carmel to retire.

In addition to his wife, he leaves three daughters: Mrs. Cathryn Gray Hoeldtke of Buffalo, New York; Miss Frances Mecca Gray of New York City; and Miss Gloria Gray of Lima, Peru; a son, William Gray of Los Angeles; and two grandsons.

Interment took place at El Carmelo Cemetery; the Paul Mortuary was in charge of funeral arrangements.

Here's how it's done

...With your right hand you touch one key at a time to play the melody. With your left hand you push one clearly marked button at a time to play the chord. With your feet you produce exactly the right bass by pressing one of the Chord Organ's two pedals.

Thousands and thousands of people, who put off learning to play a musical instrument until it was too late, have been thrilled to discover there is an instrument they can play with no previous instruction... and in a matter of minutes. Its the amazing Hammond Chord Organ.

old newspaper and frequently the black print would adhere to the fish before we got it home.

Old man Robins had a second-hand furniture shop some place in that vicinity in later years. It may have been in the building formerly occupied by the bowling alley. Fred Robins claimed to sell "antiques" and when he wasn't sauntering to and fro from the post-office he spent his time playing a wheezy old organ which belonged with his collection. And I seem to remember that he always had a cigar in his mouth. But on the page of my memory book no smoke ever came from the cigars. He just chewed them up I suppose.

It's a long time back to 1914, Wilma. Nigh onto forty years. But I'd like to know what became of those old buildings occupied by Junie Lee's dress shop and Calvin Hogle's real estate office. And there was Anna Katz gown shop now the Banbox. Could it be the same building that housed the bowling alley in 1914, later became Fred Robins second-hand shop, a real estate office in 1922 and later the gown shops.

And where did the bootblack fit in? He would set up his establishment somewhere in a niche just off the sidewalk and when a new building was planned for that location he would pick up his one chair with a footrest and move to another hole in the wall. When I knew him he was next to Stani-ford's. He lived in Pacific Grove and came over the hill daily to shine the shoes of the Carmel gentry. By that time he had two chairs and the men waited in line for his services. Ten cents was the popular price but Kathleen Kennedy tells me that he used to hold her up for fifty cents to have her riding boots polished. The women often left their shoes for cleaning and there was always a row of feminine footwear arranged in a neat row at the outer edge of the sidewalk for drying. The bootblack was a colored gentleman and his name was Walker. No one seemed to know his first name. He was a little uppish and preferred to be called Mr. Walker. He was an institution and we were all very fond of him. There are some good stories about Mr. Walker which I will relate to you some day.

There were stirring events during that summer of 1914 which I remember so well that I need no confirmation of them. It was that summer that William Chase, world-famous artist, critic, teacher, came to Carmel to conduct a class in painting. He stayed at Del Monte and came over to Carmel every day in a long, black limousine. Quite a dandy was William Chase. I still can see him going down Ocean Avenue in his open car driven by a uniformed chauffeur, Chase sitting in the back seat, conspicuous in white gloves and vest and daintily puffing a cigarette.

We had as one of our hotel guests an artist by the name of Donna Schuster. She had studied with Chase in Italy and had come here from an artists' colony in the east to take further instruction from the master. One day I took her out to Point Lobos. She wandered around by herself for awhile then rejoined me and almost screeched: "What in the hell am I going to do? It's all so beautiful that I can't settle down in a particular spot." I felt that the situation called for coolness on my part so I found a vista of one of the coves. Blue water edged with white foamy waves showing between two cliffs with gaunt cypresses on their rocky sides.

Donna settled down contentedly, set up her canvas and I saw nothing of her until it was time to leave. Chase pronounced the finished painting to be the best that had been done that summer. My husband bought it and gave it to me as an anniversary gift. It has been one of my treasures for going on forty years but recently I gave it to a nephew and his wife who are establishing their home and who will love it as I do.

Other things—dreadful things—happened that year of 1914. The brutal murder of the artist Helena Wood Smith. The subsequent search for the body. The tension, the influx of reporters, detectives and county officers. Finally the finding of the body and the dramatic capture of the criminal. We will skip all the details of that gruesome story. It wasn't pleasant. And now to pass on to an event of world significance.

One day I drove over to a tailor shop in Monterey to have some repairs made to a coat. The place was run by an Englishman. No one was there but the door was open so I entered and waited. Pretty soon the proprietor came rushing in clutching a newspaper showing big black headlines. He was panting, bewildered, red-faced, eyes bulging. He stammered: "Have you heard the news? England and Germany are at war!" I couldn't understand so much agitation on his part. The struggle was so far away and it meant so little to me. But it was his country that was fighting for its life and if I had realized then what I now know, I too would have felt the terror of the time.

All these exciting events Wilma, in Carmel in 1914, horseshoe pitching, Dave von Needa's bowling alley, a class in painting under an internationally-known artist, a sudden murder and the beginning of a World War.

To the Editor of the Pine Cone:

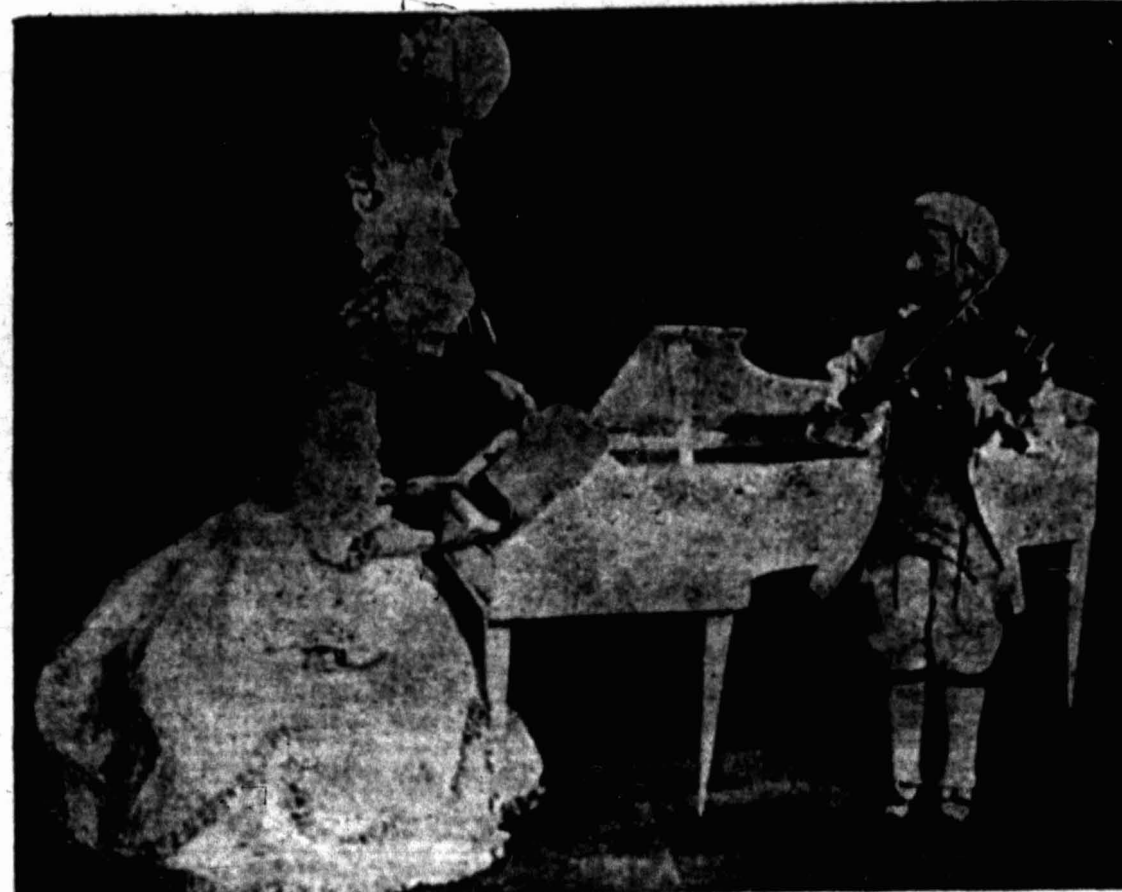

Herewith the lament of one returned to Carmel after an absence of seventeen years; of one who finds the place lovely still but different . . . a change stemming, of course, from its growth.

You have met the challenge of the motor age by building roads. Is it really necessary to be so coy and shy about telling the motorist on what road he may be? The stranger finds himself at a dead loss. It's even tough on those of us who have known the place in the past. . . . To me it seems that giving roads and then withholding their names is a bit like giving a telephone system without giving a clue to the numbers, or like a street lighting system which withholds the power.

No place as lovely as Carmel need be self-conscious about maintaining its integrity. Providence has been very kind to the area in giving it one of the world's loveliest coast lines combined with rocks, pines, cypress, hills and mountains. By its sheer beauty it attracts the stranger. How gracious a gesture it would be to let him know where he is! . . . My plea is not for anything flamboyant . . . saints forbid . . . nor even for anything "quaint" . . . far from it. All I suggest is a little cement marker at the intersections which can be easily read by pedestrians and motorists alike.

I understand this is a "hot" issue, hence I did not have the temerity to place my views before your readers until my return home. Nor would I be doing so now were I alone in my opinion. I am merely being the mouthpiece for many, many persons to whom I talked in the three weeks I spent in Carmel in September, and I found them as annoyed and as inconvenienced as I by this lack of road markers. Twice my evenings were interrupted by people at my door trying to find their way to friends with whom they were supposed to be dining. In each case they had the name of the street and the nearest cross street . . . but that was all the good it did them!!!

Two of the "stars" of the Salzburg Marionette Theatre pose in the elegant costumes and setting of an 18th century drawing room in one of the sequences to be presented Friday night, November 20, in Sunset Auditorium. The Austrian puppeteers will appear as the second offering of the current season by the Carmel Music Society.

In addition to their scheduled program for the Music Society, the Marionette Theatre has announced that there will also be a special free performance for children only on Friday afternoon. The puppet drama to be presented will be The Wizard of Oz.

For the evening's audience, the Marionette Theatre will present a program consisting of Bastien and Bastienne, Eine Kleine Nachtmusik, Concert at Schoenbrunn and The Dying Swan.

The motivating power behind the Salzburg Marionette Theatre is Herman Aicher and his wife, Elfriede and their daughters, Frick and Gretl. The organization was founded in 1913 by Anton Aicher, the father; Salzburg, the birthplace of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart and home of the Salzburg Music Festival, responded enthusiastically to the unique theatre from the very first. Herman Aicher, with his family, has brought many revolutionary innovations to the Marionette Theater, and under him it has become the foremost troupe of its kind in the world.

There is a little fellow who is yellow and gray.
He wears a little black mask and plays around all day.
He has yellow on his head and yellow on his wings.
But he never takes time to think of such things.
He sings and warbles all day long and nary has a care.
There are other things around him, but that isn't his affair.
Whenever we come near him he always will take flight.
For he really doesn't like us and he doesn't care a might.
There isn't really anything that is so much "adorabler"
Than a very tiny little thing that is a Townsend's Warbler.

One of the things we enjoyed most at camp was an all-day hike. We hiked up a trail to a point across from Pico Blanco. Mr. Blee played a game with us as we hiked along. He would say "What is this plant?" and count to ten very fast. If we missed it we went to the end of the line.

We hiked for three miles and had lunch. Then hiked back to camp and had dinner.

Before we went to camp, we decided that we would make a

HI CHATTER

This was a mixed up week. Monday and Tuesday were spirit raisers for the Carmel - Pacific Grove "Big" game. Everyone wore red and grey with little red "Beat P.G." cards with grey pom poms pinned on, them. The cheerleaders and songleaders went to Pacific Grove for an exchange rally, and vice-versa. "Let's go Padres; Ride those Breakers, Beat P.G." posters were literally plastered all over the campus.

Tuesday night we had the traditional bonfire rally. The whole school collected wood and trash for the fire, and the freshmen made the P.G. dummy which was hung over the chaos.

Wednesday was the big day, and the Leader's Club began by decorating cars for the caravan, which traveled in splendor to meet the opposition. The band went through several flashy routines at the game and deserve praise.

Yesterday and today were more or less recuperation days from the activity in the beginning of the week. Tomorrow, ten seniors are attending the Stanford High School Day at Stanford University. They will meet for registration and welcoming early in the morning, then proceed on special tours. The tours will be made through the schools of Education, Law, Publication, Engineering, Art and Nursing. The visitors will again divide up and be guests of the University at the different eating clubs and houses for lunch. Those who want to, may see the Outlaws in Nature is the unusual title for tomorrow night's Audubon Screen Tour at Sunset Auditorium in Carmel. Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society's usual approach to wildlife subjects is to regard even the animals "red in tooth and claw" as fitting into nature's law of survival.

Muri Deusing, a popular natural history lecturer, has made this colored motion picture, however, to show the predators of nature in action, including rattlesnakes, hornets and even the black widow spider. For an unusual birdlife picture, he penetrated deep into a lonely tamarack swamp to take a great horned owl raising her young.

The Deusing camera has captured, too, a pair of marsh hawks performing acrobatics, among other pictures of the birds of prey. There is humor in the picture of Snookie, a pet bear involved in a series of escapades. Like other Audubon Screen Tour photographers to visit Carmel, Muri Deusing has contributed to some of the Walt Disney nature films.

Tomorrow (Saturday) night's natural color film of the rogues' gallery in the world of nature, at Sunset Auditorium, is the work of one of America's leading craftsmen in wildlife motion picture making. He will present it in person.

The Time Has Come .

I am indebted to John and Katie Ruster for making me herb-garden minded. On the Ruster's peregrinations from coast to mountain they have thoughtfully brought to me interesting wild herbs, some of which I frantically tried to classify. No soap . . . so I sent one to the University of California to be informed the specimen was without flower, so could not be accurately classified. From my small knowledge of attempting classification, I should say that this one interesting herb is a cross between mint and rosemary. (Don't quote me!) No matter what this thing is, I am enthralled with the fragrance. I promptly put the herb into a salad. I am alive to tell the tale.

Recently I have done some research on garden herbs and find that added to the usefulness of a kitchen herb garden, these shrubs also bloom profusely. Herbs should be planted patterned to their height and habits. Tall in the background, second height in the center and ground cover for edging. Rosemary and fennel both attain a height of about six feet; both are fragrant and delicious for cookery. Fennel bears yellow flowers, rosemary blue. Me . . . I collect fennel each year along the roadside of the Carmel Hill approaching Monterey. You will notice an abundance of tall, rangy stalks, now dried, ready for harvesting. Take a look at the west side of the road the next time you go to Monterey and don't point your finger at me because I prefer to collect fennel on the roadside instead of in my own garden. (More romantic . . . more adventurous.)

Angelica comes next growing about two feet tall. (Remember the old bath-tub gin days when those "other people" saturated all sorts of stuff and stuff with oil of angelica and juniper oil?) Ugh . . . Ugh! Sweet basil is an old kitchen standby. Should be included in all herb gardens. Sweet basil has purple flowers and leaves tinged with purple. Grows about three feet tall. Marjoram is grown for its distinctive flavor and taste. It is excellent seasoning for meats and stuffing of fowl. Marjoram has purplish-pink flowers and attains a height of about two feet.

Anise belongs to the parsley family, hugs the ground and is good for borders. And today, who lives without parsley, chives and thyme at the back door? Camomile is good for flat edging and I can remember in my youth being treated to camomile tea.

Pennyroyal is another prostrate plant used for generations by our grandmothers as cure for this-and-that. There are many aromatic geraniums that should be used more frequently. My garden boasts the loveliest spearmint geranium and believe me, it is a honey. Large, hirsute leaves, velvety in texture, a handsome looking vine if I ever saw one. I use spearmint leaves to decorate my salad plates and the fragrance adds much to the interest of any salad.

There is, the nutmeg geranium with its distinctive fragrance,—with its minute serrated leaves and showering white flowers. Take your pick of these interesting herbs and get busy with your kitchen herb garden. The Rusters just rolled in with arms full of wild watercress . . . um . . . um.

Sheriff's "Push" Pulls a Vote

Was talking with our newly elected Sheriff Williams the other day. He told me about a fellow who stopped by his place late one night just before election.

"Heard a knock at the door," he said. "Fellow I never saw before. Told me his car went dead down the road and would I give him a shove. My boy, Flip, and I went out to his ear with him. We're all set to push when he steps on the starter and the motor turns over.

"Well, Flip and I just stood there when the fellow leans out the window and says, 'Just wanted to make sure you're the right man to vote for'."

From where I sit, the fellow who's quick to lend a hand makes any community a better one. But you don't have to run for office to prove you're a good neighbor. One way I know is just to have a little regard for the other fellow. Whether your neighbor likes beer or buttermilk, don't try to push him to your choice. Just give him your "vote of confidence."

Two Trees . . .

By C. EDWARD GRAVES

The two trees grew high up on the rocky slopes of Lake Tahoe overlooking the blue-green waters. One was a white fir, perhaps five feet in diameter at breast height; the other a sugar pine, a foot or two thicker than its neighbor. They were growing close together on a narrow rock shelf and their branches intermingled perhaps a hundred and fifty feet above the ground.

These two trees were my companions during a memorable summer afternoon. My wife and I had driven over the lake shore highway during the morning, past throngs of vacationers and out-of-state tourists, in our search for a quiet picnic spot. Although we both like people, there are occasions on which we prefer the companionship of the various forms of nature.

We were finally attracted by a state park sign at the edge of the highway. It led us over a mile-long road to a beach where happy picnickers were celebrating the noon hour at wooden tables under the trees. We found a vacant table and soon finished our simple lunch. In the meantime we enjoyed the antics of a dachshund at a neighboring table who repeatedly broke his leash to dash after a chattering squirrel in a near-by tree. His mistresses—there seemed to be several of them—were devoting more time to him than to their eating.

Lunch over, we continued in the main objective of our day. We had planned a division of enjoyment. I had agreed to carry the basket of pastels and the easel to a suitable point where shade and a good composition coincided. That meant a couple of hours of pure delight for my wife. Nor did she need to worry about her husband's pleasure in the meantime.

As soon as she was established on a shady slope beyond the end of the park road with a good foreground of in-shore greens on the lake surface, I started on a hunt for the kingdom of heaven on earth. This is a favorite occupation of mine on such occasions. Sometimes I am successful in finding such a temporary kingdom; more often there are enough blemishes to mar the perfection of the experience, though not always enough to spoil the experience itself.

On this sunny afternoon the chances of success seemed fairly promising. The weather could certainly not have been better and there were no insect pests. These are two of the most common obstacles met with in kingdom of heaven hunting. Cold or heat or rain or wind or flies or mosquitoes can transform an otherwise heavenly experience into something quite different.

Strolling down the trail among the rocky ledges above the lake shore, I thought of Thoreau's remarks on "sauntering" in his immortal essay on Walking. The word, he says, is "beautifully derived from idle people who roved about the country, in the Middle Ages, and asked charity, under pretense of going a la Sainte Terre, to the Holy Land, till the children exclaimed, 'There goes a Sainte-Terrer', a Saunterer, a Holy Lander". The difference in my case was that I had no intention, nor need, of asking charity, and I was really looking for the Holy Land.

I soon espied what I thought might prove to be my special kind of Holy Land. Glancing up from the trail, I saw two trees far up the hillside. There was apparently a level space at their base where a saunterer, temporarily becoming a loiterer, could find a soft bed of pine needles for his comfort. A passage-way through the shrubs on precipitous slopes permitted a somewhat difficult access; yet its very difficulty insured the desired privacy.

The kingdom of heaven on earth is not the same as the real Kingdom of Heaven. Its spirituality is only approximate, and it may mean different things to different people. One of its conditions for me is that it shouldn't be overcrowded with human beings. Up here on my woodland balcony I could look down on the trail below me and watch occasional parties, usually bent on fishing or photography, file past. I could even hear faint snatches of their conversation at times, but the words came to me as from another world.

My world, for the period of time that it took my wife to complete her pastel, was a world of rocks and trees and of blue water through the tree-tops below me. My two trees were living companions, not inanimate objects. Though I couldn't talk to them, I could commune with them. They were individuals in every sense of the word.

The white fire tree, whose correct name is Abies concolor, held his cones typically erect on the topmost branches. I could recognize him anywhere by this peculiarity of dress. None of the cones was to be found on the ground, for they have the habit of disintegrating on the branches. This tree was a noble specimen, tall, straight, healthy; but its individuality defied the attaching of a human name. I could admire and commune but not communicate.

The sugar pine is known to botanists as Pinus lambertiana. Here we have a human name, a Mr. Lambert, who was honored thus by his confreres; but even this touch of humanity failed to personalize the magnificent specimen before me. The ground was covered with the very large cones and each chink of the rocks held its complement. The green cones on the branches dangled from the tips, quite in contrast to the opposite habit of the fir.

These two trees and I spent a wonderful afternoon together. Not a word was spoken out loud but the atmosphere was full of thoughts straight from the real Kingdom of Heaven. Their celestial character helped to offset the distractions of motorboat engines on the lake surface below. Gasoline engines, I am sure, have no part in any kingdom of heaven.

Rejoining my wife, I heard about the distraught father with two small sons, fishing on the rocks below her easel. His frequent admonitions showed that he was probably baby-sitting for his wife. His kingdom of heaven would no doubt be found at home, when he could stretch his legs out in a chair after dinner and nap over his daily paper, while the two boys were playing outdoors. Being a grandfather has its advantages in kingdom of heaven hunting.

I was glad that my two trees couldn't talk. Although they were mature, and their conversation might have been interesting, and even stimulating, yet I occasionally like the kind of silent communion that was ours that summer afternoon in the Holy Land above Lake Tahoe.

U. S. AND THE FAR EAST

In The United States and the Far East, 1945-1951, published by Stanford University Press, Harold M. Vinacke tells the story behind this Europe-Asia dilemma.

Vinacke's book was originally prepared as a data paper for the eleventh international conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations, held at Lucknow, India, in October, 1950. It has since been revised and enlarged by the addition of a chapter carrying the story through the summer of 1951 and discussing the issues raised by Communist China's intervention in the Korean War.

Harold M. Vinacke, professor of political science at the University of Cincinnati, is one of America's leading authorities on the Far East and its relations with the United States. He has taught at Nankai University, Tientsin, and during World War II he was a regional specialist on Japan for the Office of War Information. He is the author of A History of the Far East in Modern Times.

In this careful, balanced account, Vinacke gives the historical background of the containment policy, and shows how it is tied in with conditions in the Far East.

In Appreciation Of John Wilgress

By Bruno Adriani

The tragic end of John Wilgress has deprived us, a few weeks after the death of R. Ellis Roberts, again of a dear English friend and an irreplaceable member of our community. Mourning this loss, we are disturbed by the poignant feeling that John did not have the chance to show during his short life the measure of his qualities, and that his days were over-shadowed by an invincible frustration.

During social gatherings he usually was a reserved bystander, watching silently the animated general conversation, a rather distant and apparently cool observer. But no one could overlook his tall elegant figure, his fascinating face, the noble form of his high forehead, the inscrutable expression of his deep-set eyes reflecting irony, sarcasm, good humour, kindness in a strange amalgam.

In the intimacy of a small circle he revealed immediately his sharp intelligence, his vast culture, and his sober judgment. Trained in Oxford and Paris, he was an expert connoisseur in English and French literature, his studies ranging over a wide span from Chaucer and Villon to Mallarme and Auden. It was a delight to listen to his pure English; he hardly raised his subdued voice, but could hold the attention of his audience through the clarity and

By Harriet Keen Roberts

I am not able to write of John Wilgress' great talents as a teacher, but I once asked him how he taught English history and he gave me an account of what he told his class about pre-Roman Britain and how he told it. It made me wish I had had such another teacher when I was young. He made me feel that I had, myself, lived in Roman Britain.

And I am not learned enough to write of his scholarship. How much I used to envy him as he and my husband talked for, literally, hours, about the world's great books, and not only of their contents but of their editions, even authenticity of his ideas. However, America had not altered his English attitude towards life. He generally effaced himself and did not display publicly his feelings and mental qualities. This reserve and lack of favorable circumstances were the reasons why he never had the opportunity to realize his secret ambition—to represent and to interpret on a larger scale literature and art of his country. Despite this disappointment he enjoyed the company of his friends; he loved art in all forms; above all he loved his distinguished devoted wife and his children. A cruel illness has prematurely destroyed his life.

of what certain editions had been worth at various times. He often brought some splendid old volume to rejoice my husband's eyes and heart, though he knew we could not purchase it; perhaps never could have done so, certainly not now, when Englishmen can get no money out of their native land.

But of one quality of John Wilgress I would like to write, his kindness. At our very first meeting, I think, he persuaded me to buy a friend's picture. No one could have used less pressure than John did, but his own sympathy with the beauty of the painter's work—and with his difficulties—was so great that I could not but catch fire from him.

Again and again, as I look back on our years of friendship, I remember that John was full of concern to find work for a writer or painter, to get medical treatment for an author or an artist who was ill. That is a heart-warming quality, even in a rich and healthy man. How much more from an artist with his living to earn, who was himself ill. Some of us know, from experience or from sympathy, how hard it is for any artist, with a few rare exceptions, to support himself, much more a growing family, by teaching, or by any other work, however interesting, when more creative work, a novel or a poem, is clamouring for his attention. And when to this is added that most grievous of ills, intermittent illness—a steady, even an incurable illness one can learn to live with, but an intermittent one raises us to the heights of hope when it departs—we hope forever—only to dash us so much further into the depths of despair when it returns)—just to go on with life and work in such circumstances is an heroic task. More need not be asked of any man. But John did more. He concerned himself, with a deep and continuing sympathy, in the struggles of other artists to create, to live, to overcome poverty and ill-health.

In this, as in all else, John Wilgress was blessed by the understanding, sympathy and devotion of that remarkable woman, his wife, who is herself a sensitive and imaginative poet.

When death comes to a friend we remember the parable of the Last Judgment and what a man is to be asked before he gains beatitude. "Hungry and ye fed Me . . . sick and in prison and ye visited Me." I remember that John motored a friend a long distance, every week, over a long period of time, to visit another friend who was in the hospital. Did it gladly, proudly. I shall never forget how, when my husband was praising a long poem John had just written, he said "What I am really proud to have accomplished is getting that job for ———".

In the lovely old "Lyke-Wake Dirge" there is a verse:

"If ever thou gavest hosen and shoon,

Every nighte and alle,

Sit thee down and put them on;

And Christe receive thy saule."

John gave "hosen and shoon", I have no doubt, but he gave the greater gifts of sympathy and encouragement to the many students and artists he met throughout his life, to the many who came to his book store. It is good to think that he can now sit down and put them on—that sympathy and that encouragement—in a better world than this. And we may remember, too, that, as Bunyan wrote "Though Christian had the hard hap to meet in the valley of humiliation with Apollyon, yet I must tell you, that in former times men have met with angels here; have found pearls here; and have in this place found the words of life". May "Christe receive the saule" of John Wilgress; may he rest in peace!

A Sister for Linda Rose

Pamela Sue is the name Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Weston have chosen for their new daughter, who was born last Saturday at Peninsula Community Hospital. The Westons also have another girl, six-year-old Linda Rose, who's now in the first grade.

Helping out at home with the baby is her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Lucille Shirley, who also lives in Carmel. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Weston of Southern California.

Her Name is Deborah

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Abbott of Serra and Guadalupe streets are happily sending out notes announcing the birth of their first child, a girl, last Thursday morning at Peninsula Community Hospital. The baby, who weighed in at eight pounds, seven ounces, has been named Deborah Susan.

Grandparents of the new baby are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nelson Abbott of Carmel Valley and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Batinovich of Aberdeen, Washington.

Orchids for Thanksgiving

City Clerk Peter Mawdsley and Mrs. Mawdsley embark Wednesday from San Francisco on the Matson freighter, Hawaiian Rancher for a loafing voyage to the Hawaiian Islands and return via Los Angeles. The Rancher carries a maximum of 12 passengers, and Mawdsleys hope that all passages won't be booked, because rest, quiet and lounging in a deck chair is what they have been dreaming of since they received their reservations two months ago. First stop will be Honolulu, then Hilo on Thanksgiving Day, "where all the orchids are," Peter points out with relish. They also dock at Port Allen and Nawiliwili on Kauai, return to Honolulu whence they sail for Los Angeles November 30. They'll be home December 6.

Skiers Mobilize for Action

The Carmel Ski Club, which happily boasts that its every meeting is a party, is beginning to get down to the serious business of planning the first ski trip of the season. New members continue to swell the ranks of the potential schussboomers and the admitted armchair athletes, but at last count it appeared that at least 50 members would be regular participants in the weekend ski trips, which will commence as soon as snow conditions are favorable.

Last Thursday's meeting involved much rehashing of the club's gala Halloween party, which was, by all accounts, a roaring success. Jack Woodfield of Carmel was elected to the executive committee and handed the job of separating the sheep from the goats; i.e., figuring out a system to identify bona fide Ski Club members from "people and guests" on meeting nights. The evening was finished off with dancing to a cool collection of canned music.

The club, which meets each Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock at Mission Ranch, invites anyone interested in the sport to visit and join.

Shower for the Shorts

Any resemblance between the after-dinner party the Bob Smiths gave Saturday night and a conventional baby shower was mostly coincidental and ex post facto, as well, since the ostensible object of the proceedings (the baby) was not supposed to have made his appearance until some days afterwards.

As it happened, John Douglas Short III got his cues mixed and proceeded to surprise his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Douglas Short II, by arriving last month. In any event, the Smiths' shower-party, with the Shorts II and (in absentia) III as honored guests, was attended by some 40 friends and well-wishers who presented them with a variety of gifts which guarantee that John III—who'll be three weeks old today—will be handsomely swaddled and bibbed for some time to come.

Prior to the party, which took place in and about the Smiths' firelit patio, the Shorts were entertained at a small dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilcox, along with Dr. and Mrs. Talcott Bates, and Dr. and Mrs. Russell Williams.

Fashion Show Luncheon

Some 65 costumes, including everything from cruise and sports wear to cocktail and evening gowns and furs, will be modeled at a fashion show luncheon to be held at Del Monte Lodge on Thursday. The entire collection, including originals by such designers as Paul Parnes, Sophie, Ben Reig and Edith Small, is from Littler's of Pebble Beach, and the show will be under the direction of Frank Gallagher, fashion coordinator for the Littler stores here and in Seattle.

Among the models will be Mrs. Clyde Young, Mrs. D. E. Chappell, Mrs. Donald Borden, Mrs. Frederick Stanley, Mrs. E. D. Goodrich, Mrs. Marian Ganong, Mrs. Chase Drake, Mrs. Earle P. Schouten, Mrs. Harry G. Bullard, Mrs. Henry Jones, Mrs. William Crawford, Mrs. Jon Konigshofer, Mrs. George H. Frates, Jr. and Miss Rose Gossler.

The luncheon will begin at 1:00 o'clock, with the fashion show at 2:30. Reservations for the affair may be made by telephoning Carmel 7-6411.

Plan Holiday Tea

Members of the Monterey County Medical Society Auxiliary met last week to discuss plans for the Christmas Holiday Tea, to be held December 9 at the Del Monte School for Boys. The event will be a benefit for the Auxiliary's nursing scholarship program.

Mrs. Richard L. Bower is the general chairman for the event, and will be assisted by Mrs. Hartley Dewey, Mrs. Howard Clark, Mrs. Thomas L. Magee, Mrs. Ernest Simard, Mrs. Milton Shutes, Mrs. Wesley Heard, Mrs. John Gratiot, Mrs. William Coughlin, Mrs. Allen Mitchell, Mrs. A. J. Hermann, Mrs. Horace Dormody, Mrs. Raymond V. Rukke and Mrs. A. Carol McKenney.

Forest Theater Officers

At the first meeting of the recently elected Board of Governors of the Forest Theater Guild, Tuesday evening, Cole Weston was elected president; Milton Stitt, vice president; Hazel McLellan, second vice president; Blanche Tolmie, corresponding secretary, and Elizabeth Niles, recording secretary. Victor Velissaratos was re-elected treasurer.

Tuesday evenings were re-established as work nights on the little theater under a committee headed by Dolf Tewes, in preparation for an active winter season of downstairs productions.

The play-reading committee, chaired by Barbara Horder, was instructed by President Weston to find three or four plays for immediate production.

Also under discussion were plans for the big summer production and plans for a rummage auction sale tentatively scheduled for late December.

Capens Have a Son

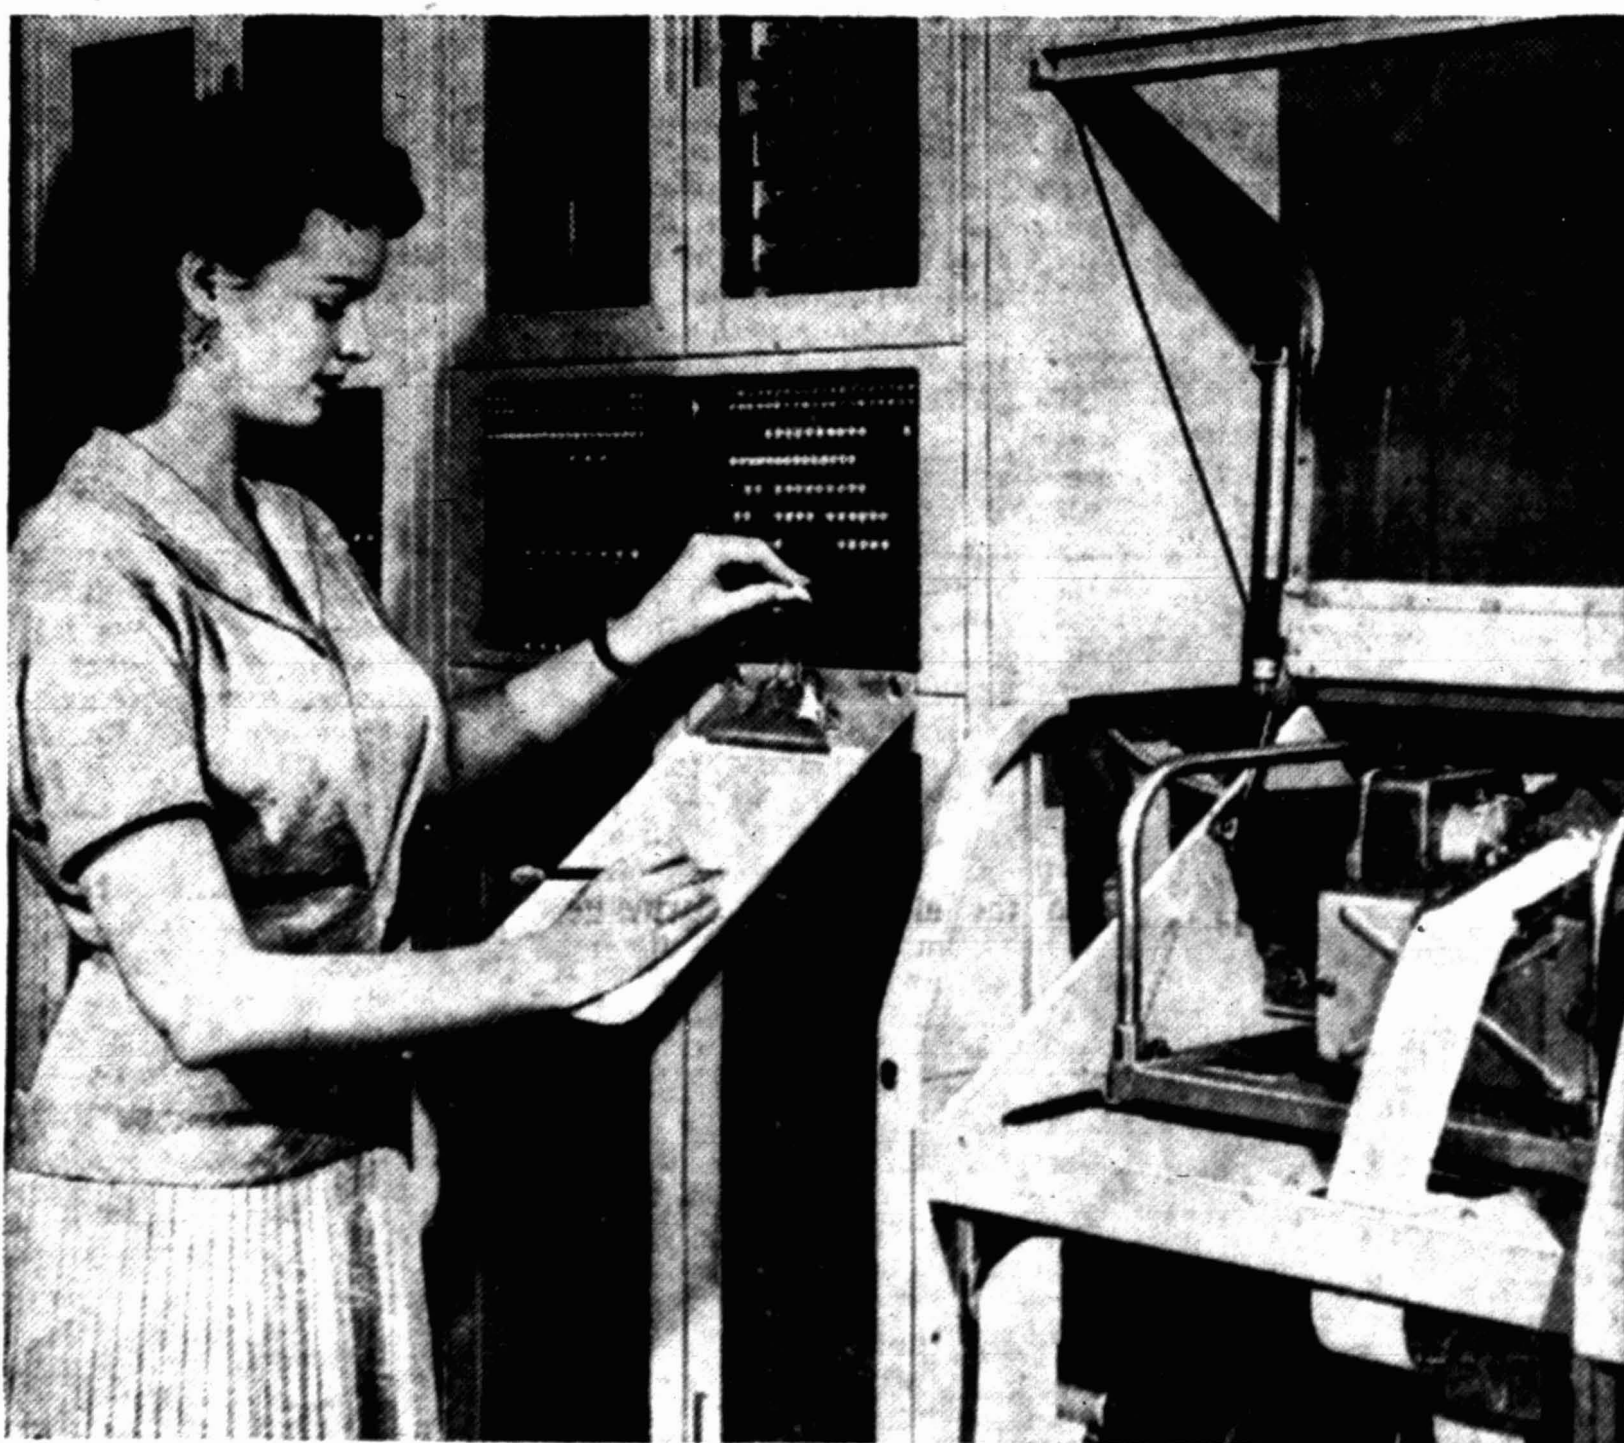

"He's a real doll!" is the proud parental verdict passed on their first son by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Capen of Carmel Valley. The bonny boy, who promises to be a redhead like his dad, weighed in at eight pounds, three ounces at Peninsula Community Hospital on October 29; he's been named Tracey Bernard.

Young Tracey has plenty of company at home. He has a half-brother, Peter Heyl, 10, and a four-year-old half-sister, Chris. Grandparents of the new baby are Mrs. Lucille Capen of Monterey and Mrs. Edith McGinnis of Alameda.

WITH A.M.A. YOU'LL DIAL FARTHER, FASTER

How A.M.A.—Automatic Message Accounting—

streamlines telephone service with electronic magic

All over the West, people are making routine calls over much greater distances than they used to. We're always working to tailor service to the changing needs of those who use it... for example, making it possible for people to dial more of their calls over longer distances. To do this, we needed automatic equipment to record the information necessary for billing the out-of-town calls you dial. Bell Telephone Laboratories solved this complex problem with A.M.A., an amazing achievement in electronics.

A.M.A. cuts costs, helps keep rates low

A.M.A. is fast, accurate, and greatly extends the scope of dial telephone service. It saves time... and money. And it's typical of what we're doing to build better, more efficient telephone service—keep costs down and make your telephone ever more useful.

YOUR TELEPHONE IS ONE OF
TODAY'S BEST BARGAINS

Faster telephone service is one advantage of A.M.A., which makes possible direct dialing by customers of out-of-town calls. Already installed in some parts of the Pacific West, the equipment automatically keeps track of your out-of-town calls with uncanny accuracy, sorting them out and compiling them for your monthly bills. Other installations in the West will be made as the intricate equipment becomes available. For our eventual goal is customer dialing of long distance calls to all parts of the nation.

MPC Students Attend Conference

Three representatives of the Monterey Peninsula College International Club were present yesterday evening at a dinner and conference in San Francisco sponsored jointly by the Collegiate Council for the United Nations and the Student World Affairs Council of Northern California, with Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Mr. Clark Eichelberger as guest speakers.

Local students who attended were Mavis Boyd and Aurel Stevens, co-ed president and vice-president of the International Club, and Dick Peters, associate member. The club, which has been in existence for just a year, enjoys an active membership of both foreign and scholarship students and other interested students on campus. Faculty sponsor of the group is Dr. Louis Gay Balsam, instructor of history and sociology at the college.

Purpose of the San Francisco conference was to introduce students interested in world affairs to leaders on the American scene and to acquaint them with the sponsoring organizations.

Country Club Party

Monterey Peninsula Country Club will be the scene of a South of the Border dinner dance tomorrow night. In keeping with the Latin theme, strolling musicians will enhance the cocktail hour and provide music for dancing; Dorothy Dean and Richardo Sosa will entertain with an exhibition of South American dances. Costumes will be optional, but the planning committee—headed by Mrs. Richard L. Hane—suggests that a few Latin fillips in dress might add to the spirit of the occasion.

DAR Meeting Tuesday

The November meeting of Commodore Sloat Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will take place at 3:00 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Rawlins at 15th near Monte Verde.

Mrs. Frank E. La Cauza, chapter regent, will give a report of the October meeting of the Northern Council held in San Jose.

Co-hostesses will be Mrs. W. S. Johnston, Mrs. F. W. Meech and Mrs. Frank E. La Cauza.

Kurt Comes, Bringing Friends

Forewarned by her son, Kurt, that he would be down for the weekend with "a few friends," Mrs. Julian von Meier was only momentarily staggered when he showed up early Saturday morning with no less than nine fraternity brothers from U.C. in tow.

However, she notes in retrospect, they proved to be model guests. In the first place, Kurt and his friends slept most of the first day, having spent a busy night Friday creating well-planned and assorted mayhem around their frat house, Del Rey, on the occasion of the annual Sneak Day, which demands that every man do his utmost towards gutting the premises and removing all portable fixtures before departing for the weekend. Apart from such extra-curricular activities, Kurt is a sophomore, and is currently directing his academic interests toward English and philosophy.

When not sleeping or indulging in frequent and moderately prodigious meals, the group spent their time on the beach. ("Several of them," said Mrs. von Meier with the air of true Carmelite, "were from Southern California and had never really seen the beach.") They also did dishes and generally left her home in fine shape, she adds. They returned Sunday to Cal, presumably to help put the fraternity house back together, and seemed well pleased with the weekend. Mrs. von Meier, in turn, invited them all back again—provided they come separately.

Painters Back From Mexico

Carmel painters Patricia Cunningham and Marjorie Doolittle returned last week from Mexico, where they have spent over a month painting and generally absorbing that country's rich cultural atmosphere. With them on the trip was Mrs. Doolittle's sister-in-law and fellow artist, Leona Doolittle, and Bernice Harrison of Seattle.

The trip brought them into contact with numerous fellow painters, including Carmelite Ellwood Graham and his wife Barbara (whom they visited in Mexico City), and Rico Lebrun and Hamilton Wolf. In Taxco, they were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Fidel Figueroa; a student of Pat's during the war, Figueroa is now considered one of Mexico's outstanding contemporary artists.

The visible outcome of the trip will be revealed early next month, when Mrs. Cunningham will open a one-man show at the Pebble Beach Art Gallery of paintings she made in Mexico.

Reception Honors Newlyweds

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin C. Wallace (Joan Fleig) were honored at a reception recently at the Carmel home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Fleig. The couple were wed in September in Arizona, and came to Carmel for the last week of their honeymoon.

A 1951 graduate of Carmel High School, Joan attended Hartnell College for a year and has recently been working in Los Angeles. Her new husband, the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Wallace of Charlotte, North Carolina, is serving in the Navy aboard the aircraft carrier Rendova, currently stationed in San Diego. He and Joan have established their home in Los Angeles.

The reception, which featured a cocktail party and buffet supper, gave Joan the opportunity to introduce her husband to her many friends here, who in turn showered the couple with a variety of wedding gifts. Flower arrangements which decorated the Fleig home were the work of Mrs. A. C. Andersen, while Mrs. James Cherry planned the entertainment for the evening.

Guests included the Mesdames Blanche Wood and her mother, Mrs. Morris, Del Wermuth, Edith Larson, Charles Fonteneau, Herbert Schoenthal, James Cherry, Violet Hernandez, A. C. Andersen, D. L. Staniford, Paul Chedester, Florence Holm, Pete Hidalgo, Del Wilson and Gene Scheffer, and the Misses Grace McKay, Ruth Ann Moffet and Lupe Rames.

Paca Show at Town House

On Monday Mrs. Lillian Grace Paca will hang an exhibit of the original drawings of birds made for her book Introduction to Western Birds, as well as several pastels, in the main room at Town House. Tuesday afternoon from 3:00 to 4:30 o'clock the Carmel Foundation will sponsor a tea in Mrs. Paca's honor, with members and friends invited to attend.

Wednesday afternoon Charles Dawson will give a new showing of color travel movies, showings of which proved extremely popular at Town House last year. Next week's show will deal with Ireland and will begin at 3:00 o'clock. Tea will follow.

This Wednesday members of the Foundation enjoyed a special Armistice Day program by Miss Mary Lindsay-Oliver, musician and painter, who performed on the piano selections from the score of her composition entitled The New Day for orchestra, chorus, and ballet.

Ketcham for Book Section Talk

Cartoonist Hank Ketcham and his wife, Alice, will be the guests at the Monday afternoon meeting of the Carmel Woman's Club Book Section. Ketcham will tell members the story of creating Dennis the Menace and will illustrate his talk with sketches and a demonstration of the development of a cartoon.

The Ketchams returned to their Carmel home last May after a stay in New York and Connecticut. Ketcham now has a staff of assistants preparing special work and novelties in connection with the Dennis strip, but the cartoon work is done by Hank himself. Dennis was syndicated in 1951 and is now carried by more than 300 daily papers. By-products of the Dennis cartoons abound—Dennis shirts, toys, cocktail napkins, etc.—and it now appears that there may be a Dennis the Menace TV show.

Miss Mabel Claire Stark, chairman of the Book Section, has announced that Monday's meeting will be open to all Woman's Club members and their guests. The social tea hour will be under the supervision of Mrs. Ferris Bagley and her committee. The program will begin at 2:00 o'clock at the Club House.

Wives of chapter members will be invited to attend, along with guests from the neighboring Coast Valleys chapter and student associates from the architecture department at California Polytechnic.

Presenting the charter to President Frank Palms will be Charles O. Matcham, director of the Sierra Nevada Region of A.I.A. Palms will also report to members on the regional A.I.A. convention which he attended last month at Coronado.

C.T.A. Has a Party

No Carmel kids had to stay after school last Friday—for the simple reason that the teachers were playing hooky. The occasion was the first big party of the year given by the Carmel Teachers' Association, which took place at Holman's Guest Ranch in the Valley.

Putting aside all affairs academic, the group had itself a fine time: some ventured forth on a horseback excursion, others had their own impromptu picnics, while the majority enjoyed dinner in the patio, enlivened by entertainment provided by some of the new teachers. Comedians Richard Pritchard and Kenneth Weise contributed some Martin-Lewis-type patter, and a chorus line consisting of Barbara Lynch, Eleanor Cence, Barbara Weis and Eloise Rainer swayed through a hula routine.

Others who participated in the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Mitchell and daughter, Sue, Mr. and Mrs. John Westover, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Sproull, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Mylar, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gere, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Byrne, Mr. and Mrs. William Buckman, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clayton and children Phyllis and Philip, and Mr. and Mrs. James Blee; Mesdames Elise Beaton, Ellen Jane Down, Marcia de Voe, Mariquita Brey, Anna Kohner and daughter Sandra, Mary Osborne, Edna Lockwood, Marjorie McCausland, Beatrice Rea, Mildred Riker, Cleo Wells with Denise, Bobby and Fred; Misses Enid Larson, Doris Latham, Sally McPhail, Harriet Norman, Fronsa Thayer, and Alene Luther, and Allan Aldwell, Richard Pritchard and Kenneth Weise.

Dame Flora's Visit

A charming, lively and altogether delightful grandmother in her seventies came, saw and conquered the Monterey Peninsula last week amidst more pomp and circumstance than this informal community has witnessed in some time.

The visitor was Dame Flora MacLeod, the first woman ever to become chieftain of one of the major Scottish clans, who spent a busy five-day stay here as part of a tour of the U.S. and Canada to help bring together more closely the far-flung branches of Clan MacLeod. Accompanying her were her two 18-year-old grandsons, identical twins, Patrick Wolrige-Gordon and John MacLeod, the latter of whom will inherit the chieftainship by virtue of having been born 40 minutes before his twin.

From the time she and her party stepped from the plane Friday morning to the accompaniment of skirling pipes, to Wednesday morning when Dr. and Mrs. Remsen Bird and a party of her Peninsula hosts saw them off again to Los Angeles, Dame Flora ruled the day. While the Peninsula visit was ostensibly for recreation and relaxation, her time was largely occupied by a round of military and social affairs. Among the activities were a formal reception hosted by Brig. General and Mrs. Robert McClure in her honor at the Soldiers' Club Friday night, a large reception by the S. F. B. Morses in Pebble Beach, a luncheon Monday at Noel Sullivan's Hollow Hills Farm, a cocktail party at Mrs. Sidney Fish's Palo Corona Ranch, Dr. and Mrs. Remsen Bird, who had not met Dame Flora previously but have carried on correspondence with her for the past three years, were her hosts on Sunday, and accompanied her on trips into the valley and down the coast, where she was entertained at the Big Sur ranch of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fuller.

Her visit to Los Angeles, where she and her grandsons will be entertained by Dr. Walter MacLeod of Pasadena, will be one of the last stops of Dame Flora's itinerary. She will return to Dunvegan Castle on the Isle of Skye, the ancestral home of the MacLeods, in time for Christmas.

Cpl. Adams Here on Leave

Spending a few days' leave in town after nearly a year's absence is Birney Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Adams of Torres and Eighth. Birney, a corporal in the Air Force, has been stationed at Keesler Air Force Base in Mississippi, where he just completed an intensive course in electronics school.

This weekend Birney will leave home again to take up his new assignment in Puerto Rico, where he expects to be stationed for the next year and a half.

O.E.S. Officers Entertained

Mr. and Mrs. Paul McKinstry, worthy matron and patron of the Carmel Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, entertained the 1953 officers of the organization and their husbands Wednesday night with cocktails at their Carmel home followed by dinner at the Casa Munras.

The McKinstry's guests included Mr. and Mrs. Ed Neroda, Mr. and Mrs. William Bjornwald, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Scheffer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Little, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Winslow, Mr. and Mrs. James Ashley, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. William Giles, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Avis, Mr. and Mrs. D. With the school year getting under way, Junior Red Cross has entered upon its annual membership drive, with the 1954 slogan, We Care—We Share.

Secondary and High School students are welcome, and a membership fee of ten cents or up is the only requirement, this fund going into Junior Red Cross' own project fund.

Last year projects included gift boxes for children overseas, an exchange project for art and music, and the annual gift chest sent to a needy community abroad. Carmel's gift chest included school supplies for 48 pupils, a soccer ball, large rubber balls, soap and towels for 48, a first aid kit and a copy of the high school annual. Until "thank you" notes began coming in, the destination of the chest was not known. It was a needy town in Germany, and the exchange of notes is proving a valuable step in international understanding.

FIELD DAY FOR ROCK-HOUNDS IN NEW SHOP

The Carmel Mineral Arts Shop, which opened this week in the new Bishop Building on San Carlos near Fifth, has put a gleam in the eyes of local rock-hounds and lapidaries.

Specializing in raw and finished minerals and gem stones from all over the world for collectors, the shop is founded on the simple idea of using beautiful rocks decoratively. And as anyone who has hoarded pebbles from the beach knows, rocks and minerals have a beauty and fascination all their own.

Owners of the Mineral Arts Shop are Beatrice A. Clark and Lola Maskewitz, both of Carmel. Their retail venture is a new one to them, but both have great experience and interest in the materials they handle.

For the hobbyist and collector, the shop has specimens and slabs of all sorts of precious, semi-precious and just plain interesting stones: chrysocolla from Arizona, amethyst from Africa, jade and rhodonite from the Monterey County coast. The shop also carries original designs in jewelry, each piece different and each setting suggested by the shape, quality and flow of the stone itself. There is also a distinctive collection of pottery and accessories, designed to harmonize with natural stones in flower arrangements or decorative motifs.

In Appreciation Of John Wilgress

By Donald Craig

The pity of it! That young John Wilgress should die when all we have depends on such men as he, men who are the alchemists of society: the born teachers.

To a deep reverence for the classics he joined a critical and perceptive faculty for historical evaluation, and to the brilliant mind which weighed the ideas of antique and modern lore he paired an ability to transmit clearly the refined product. He delighted in the instruction of children. The study of Latin he conceived as not an end in itself, but as a pathway which led to eminences from which all the richness of language and the broad plain of history might be seen. We had many talks on education, and although once, in passing, he very modestly mentioned a Latin text he had authored, there was no difference in the enthusiasm with which he spoke of his students and the faith he had in them.

I never saw John Wilgress teach children, but I did make part of an audience that heard him lecture, over a period of three weeks, on the interpretations of history according to Karl Marx, Oswald Spengler, and Arnold Toynbee. The setting was intimate, the audience one not easily impressed, and yet John Wilgress not only held it engrossed in the explanation of the theses, but through a marvellously modulated critical attitude, he stimulated thought and drew the best from each member of it. He taught them from within.

We have too few men of that caliber, too few with his erudition, his love of literature and history, and now with the passing of John Wilgress we are diminished by more than one: we have lost a scholar and a teacher.

By James Cooley

A decade past, but still remembered by a student who learned English History from him, John Wilgress was loved by all who knew and were taught by him at Midland School.

This dynamic individual inspired the respect and love of all his students and acquaintances.

A privilege indeed for any student to have experienced his friendship and tutelage.

"Carmel's largest automobile dealer" was born and raised in Berkeley, graduated from U.C. and took post-graduate work in refrigeration. For 20 years he was established as a refrigeration consulting engineer in Berkeley, and later established Blairco Products in Oakland where he engaged in the design and development of refrigeration patents. He came to the Peninsula three years ago as refrigeration engineer for the MacDonald Refrigeration Co. in Monterey. He and his wife, Sybil, and their four sons make their home here at Fourth and Carmelo; the eldest son, Chuck, attends Carmel High, Doug is at Sunset, and the two youngest, Lance and Rocky, are at Woods School. Bob's sister-in-law, Barbara Krieger, will assist him in the showroom of the Foreign Car Center.

Edith Taft

Mrs. Edith Taft, a Carmel resident for the past 10 years, died last Wednesday in a Salinas hospital following a short illness. She was 92.

A native of Michigan, Mrs. Taft attended Cornell University and was employed for some time as art teacher and supervisor in public schools in Colorado. She moved to Carmel following the death of her husband, mining engineer Harry Howard Taft. She was for several years a member of the Carmel Art Association.

She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Paul Moschella, and a step-grandson, Philip Allen, both of Marina. Funeral services were held Monday in Salinas.

Stanifords Retire; Drug Store Sold

Last week Donald L. "Doc" Staniford retired from the drug-store business which he and his wife have operated here for the past 28 years.

New owner of the store at the corner of Ocean and San Carlos—the oldest drugstore in town—is Frank Castagna, who recently returned to Carmel after a 12 years' absence, during which he managed his own store in Felton. Previously Castagna worked as a pharmacist for his brother, Ralph, proprietor of the Carmel Drug Store. The sale will be formally concluded this Sunday, but the Stanifords actually made their retirement effective as of last week.

Doc and Mrs. Staniford, both of whom are registered pharmacists, plan to enjoy life in a leisurely way, and Doc will undoubtedly find more time to pursue—vicariously, at least—his hobbies of football and baseball. In the meantime, their former store will retain the name of Staniford's Drug Store, the new owner has promised.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

The Golden Text for the Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Mortals and Immortals" to be read in all Christian Science churches, Sunday, November 15, is from I Corinthians: "As we have borne the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly" (15:49).

Other citations from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, comprising the sermon, will include the following passages:

Psalms: "He that is our God is the God of Salvation; and unto God the Lord belong the issues from death" (68:20).

Science and Health: "Man is not a pendulum, swinging between evil and good, joy and sorrow, sickness and health, life and death. Life and its faculties are not measured by calendars. The perfect and immortal are the eternal likeness of their Maker" (p. 246).

CARMEL-CV KIWANIS MEET

On Monday the Carmel Kiwanis Club will hold a joint luncheon meeting with the Carmel Valley club, to be held at 12:00 o'clock at Rancho Carmelo in the valley.

Dr. K. Fillmore Gray was the speaker at the regular Thursday meeting of the Carmel club this week. Thanksgiving was the theme of Dr. Gray's talk, in which he briefly recalled the history of the national holiday and discussed its contemporary significance.

Mrs. Henry Venn, left, and Mrs. K. Fillmore Gray, outfit Mary Lou Roberts in spangles, boas and a genuine 1904 bonnet for the Church of the Wayfarer's Friday night "49'er party" to celebrate the 49th anniversary of the Church's founding.

Memories of the early days of Carmel will be recalled at the 1904 Church Social at the Church of the Wayfarer tonight at 7:30 o'clock. In a setting of kerosene lamps, family photo albums and stereoscopes, the dust ruffles of the turn-of-the-century dresses will be in evidence as the church celebrates the 49th anniversary of its founding in 1904.

Mary Lou Roberts will be at the piano, playing for the community singing of old favorites, which will be a feature of the evening, and, accompanying herself, will sing several numbers like I'm the Kind of a Girl Men Forget. Interspersed with this music will be old fashioned dances by Gay Goffinet and Donna Sands and a series of living pictures, directed by Mrs. Henry Venn, and featuring individuals and groups in costumes ranging across the first 25 years of the century.

Mrs. David E. Nixon, one of Carmel's historians, will give some of the highlights of the early years of the church's history, dressed for the occasion in a bonnet and old dress. There will also be a display of the old record books and documents, having to do with the early days of the church.

Following the musical program, the large birthday cake will be cut and served. Mrs. Mary H. Chilcott, celebrating her ninetieth birthday today, will cut the first piece of cake. Recognition will be given to those whose association with the church goes back the longest. Ice cream will be served by the Wayfarer Guild, under the chairmanship of Mrs. D. C. Lockwood.

At the 9:30 and 11:00 o'clock church services on Sunday morning, further observance of the anniversary will be conducted by Dr. K. Fillmore Gray, with the Chapel Singers and Connell K. Carruth at the organ.

The church dates from May of 1904 when the first meetings were held out of doors under the pines by an 81-year-old minister from Pacific Grove, the Rev. George Clifford. Meeting under the trees until October, they moved to a hall, then a home, and former school building, and then into the small building which was erected on Lincoln Street. The two lots had been given by J. F. Devendorf and the Carmel Development Company, and the original subscriptions to construct a building had been secured by E. A. Arne of Carmel. With six charter members the society was incorporated in November of 1904.

For many years it was called simply Carmel Church as it was the only church in the village. Later it was known as Carmel Community Church and in 1940 became the Church of the Wayfarer. During a part of this week's celebration, greetings will be brought from five former ministers of the church: Stephen C. Thomas (1915-18), T. Harold Grimshaw (1929-33), Melvin C. Dorsett (1933-35), Homer S. Bodley (1936-38), and Wilber M. McKee (1938-40).

SCHOOL BOARD MEETS WED.

November meeting of the Carmel Unified School District Board will be held Wednesday evening, 7:15 o'clock in the board room at the high school, since regular meeting day, second Wednesday, fell on Armistice Day.

New Presbyterian Church Reaches Third Of Quota

Dr. Harry Clayton Rogers announced this week that one-third of the goal of 70 charter members for the new Presbyterian Church in Carmel was secured at the first service meeting in the Carmel Woman's Club Sunday.

This Sunday, Dr. Rogers' sermon will be The Power of a Great Friendship. The Dedication of the Twenty-third Psalm in the Order of Worship will be in tribute to the memory of the Reverend Dr. John A. Logan, for many years the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Monterey. The new Presbyterian Church in Carmel is making one of its missionary projects, Logan Hall, the Youth Center of the Monterey Church, named in honor of their former minister. Gifts, including equipment for Logan Hall, will be accepted this Sunday morning at the new Presbyterian Church. Also, a letter of encouragement from the Reverend Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of the National Presbyterian Church in Washington, D. C., will be read.

Lorin Lacey Reports Foreign Car Sales Are Up 30 Percent

Lorin Lacey, owner of the British Car Agency in Monterey, announces that foreign car registrations are up 30% for the first five months of 1953.

The two-seater MG remains in first place in new foreign car sales, with the Hillman Minx, a product of the Rootes group, second. Another Rootes product, the Sunbeam-Talbot, has shown the greatest single gain in sports car sales with the introduction of the new Sunbeam Alpine, Lacey added.

five-weeks trip to Europe. The Queen Mary, on which she made the return trip, made the crossing in five days. Before taking the train for the west coast, she was entertained for a week by friends in New York City, where, among other things, she visited the eighth birthday observance of the United Nations, saw (and didn't like) the Critics' Prize Play, Picnic, on Broadway, and was treated to an after-theatre party at Sardi's.

Now that things have settled down somewhat, Mrs. Sisson plans to write a post-script to her "Letters from Norway", telling of her experiences during the final stages of her trip in Bergen, Copenhagen and London, which will appear in subsequent issues of the Pine Cone. In the meantime, this weekend, she is entertaining a group of friends and fellow writers from Stanford University; having formerly contributed numerous articles to national magazines, Mrs. Sisson has participated in several summer writers' conferences at the University.

Mrs. Sisson was pleased to discover that during her absence the Carmel Library has purchased a handsome set of the complete Lincoln Papers from the E. O. Sisson Memorial Fund, established following Dr. Sisson's death several years ago. A noted Lincoln scholar, the late Dr. Sisson contributed much time and interest to the library from the time he and Mrs. Sisson first came here in 1938.
